Before you invest in any fund, consider how the fund would work with your other investments and your tolerance for risk.

The fund is an alternative mutual fund. It is permitted to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for other types of mutual funds. The specific strategies that differentiate the fund from other types of mutual funds include: increased use of derivatives for hedging and non-hedging purposes; increased ability to sell securities short; and the ability to borrow cash to use for investment purposes. While these strategies will be used in accordance with the fund's investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value.

How risky is it?

The value of the fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money. One way to gauge risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility". In general, funds with a higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

PIMCO Canada Corp. has rated the volatility of this fund as low to medium. This rating is based on how much the fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the fund's returns, see the "What are the Risks of Investing in the Fund?" section of the fund's simplified prospectus.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether or not you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the fund. The fees and expenses – including any commissions – can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other series, funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges – Series F units are no load. That means that there is no payment made by PIMCO Canada to your representative when you buy Series F units of the fund. There is also no sales charge when you redeem or switch Series F units. Your representative may charge you a sales commission or other fee when you buy, switch or redeem Series F units.

2. Fund Expenses You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. The fund's expenses are made up of the management fee, operating expenses and trading costs. The series' annual management fee is 1.75% of the series' value. Because the fund is new, operating expenses and trading costs are not yet available.

More about the trailing commission

For Series F units, PIMCO Canada does not pay any trailing commission to your registered representative.

3. Other Fees – You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch units of the fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	1% if a redemption occurs within 7 days of purchase or switch.
Switch fees	Up to 2% may be charged to you and retained by your representative.
Returned cheques	There will be a $35 fee for Non-Sufficient Fund cheques that are returned if there are insufficient funds in your account to pay for your units.
Fee-for-service account units	Series F units are for investors who are participants in a fee-for-service or wrap account program sponsored by some representatives' firms or investors investing through their discount brokerage accounts. You may pay a fee to your representative's firm for investment advice and other services.
